

Study Visual Communication, BA at the UE

Design and Design Strategy in a Power Package!

© Olivia Lehmann

Why the UE?

In the BA Visual Communication programme at the University of Europe for Applied Sciences (UE) the interaction between media, people, and society takes center stage. These interfaces are crucial for daily exchange and mutual understanding - and it is here that we, as professional designers, assume responsibility. We analyse the current media landscape and develop innovative concepts and strategies for the future.

Our programme stands out for its diversity, merging theory and practice to open up new perspectives for you and foster the development of an individual design-oriented mindset. In our well-equipped studios, including those for photography, video, virtual reality, animation, print, and prototyping, you can bring your ideas to life, supported by our experienced colleagues. Shape your future at UE, become a part of our innovative programme, and evolve into a sought-after professional in the media and advertising industry.
