Section-A (Reading)

(1.) Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below:

When Alexander Fleming was sixteen, he had to work to earn his living. He found a job in a shipping office in London. The wages were small and the work rather uninteresting. He also worked as a volunteer soldier on weekends and holidays. It was soon discovered that the sturdy young man from Scotland was a fine shot and a very good swimmer.

Just afterwards, a relative died, leaving him a small but useful sum of money. His brother Thomas advised him to give up the job at the shipping office and spend the money on his training as a doctor. Alexander said later, "My brother Thomas pushed me into medicine."

So he joined St. Mary's hospital school. He attended lectures and watched operations, he also swam and acted in plays. Yet he was always the top student in the examination. He won many prizes and scholarships. It came to be known about his memory that he could remember the whole book after reading it just once.

(2.) Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below:

Vegetable oil has been known from antiquity. No household can get on without it, for it is used in cooking. Perfumes may be made from the oils of certain flowers. Soaps are made from vegetable and animal oils. To the ordinary man, one kind of oil may be as important as another. But when the politician or the engineer refers to oil, he almost always means mineral oil, the oil that drives tanks, airplanes and warships, motorcars etc. This is the oil that has changed the life of the common man. When it is refined into petrol, it is used to run engines. To it we owe the existence of the motorcar, which has replaced the private carriage drawn by horse. To it we owe the possibility of flying.

It has changed the method of warfare on land and sea. This kind of oil comes out of the earth. It is used as fuel, and in some ways, it is superior to coal in this respect. Many big ships now burn oil instead of coal. Because it burns brightly, it is used for illumination. Because it is very slippery, it is used for lubrication. Two metal surfaces rubbing together cause friction and heat, but if they are separated by a thin film of oil, the friction and heat are reduced. No machine would work for long if it were not properly lubricated. The oil used for this purpose must be of the correct thickness. If it is too thin it will not give sufficient lubrication, and if it is too thick it will not reach all parts that must be lubricated.

Questions:

- (i)What is the primary use of vegetable oil, according to the passage? 1
(a) cooking (b) illumination
(c) perfume making (d) soap production
- (ii)Which type of oil is often referred to by politicians and engineers? 1
(a) vegetable oil (b) mineral oil
(c) animal oil (d) flower oil
- (iii)The mineral oil, when refined into petrol, has contributed to the development of- 1
(a) cooking techniques (b) private carriages
(c) motorcars (d)soap production
- (iv)How has mineral oil changed the method of warfare on land and sea? 1
(a) by enhancing cooking methods (b) by replacing horses with motorcars
(c) by fueling tanks, airplanes, and warships (d) by improving soap production
- (v)Why do many big ships now burn oil instead of coal? 1
(a) because it is more readily available (b) because it is brighter
(c) because it is a superior fuel (d) because it is used for lubrication

(3.) Read the following passage carefully. Make notes and supply a suitable title: 4

When planning to go on a vacation, the tendency is to make sure that the travel plans are hassle free, before stepping out of one's doors. This involves booking by train, bus or even by air to one's chosen destination. Yet the greatest holidays can be enjoyed by going on foot and I am not referring to trekking expeditions into the wilds. Any holiday can be made into a walking trip by opting out of a bus ride or a train journey or a taxi drop, by selecting to go on foot. Besides, walking is a great form of exercise and, above all, helps you to go deep into the local culture, the daily lives of people, their food and their music.

Walking helps you enhance the adventurous streak in you. If you are out on a beach holiday, instead of workouts at the gym, head out to the water for your exercise. Resort pools are a great way to have fun and stay fit and are suitable for all ages. Wake up early to start your day with a swim and you can also recruit family and friends to join in to make the activity even more interesting.
